Subject: Response to Objection regarding PG&E claim

Attached: Objection and Initial Proof of Claim containing required names, case numbers, etc. (US Bankruptcy Court Northern District of CA, SF Division / PG&E Corporation -and- Pacific Gas and Electric Company / Lead Case 19-30088 (DM) / Claim 1455 / etc)

Concise statement: I would appreciate it if the Court would reconsider paying this damage. This was not Wildfire damage and PG&E already told me they would cover the damage prior to the claim getting absorbed into the bankruptcy proceedings. PG&E representatives admitted that the severe power surges and roughly 45 seconds of erratic brownout/surges should not have been allowed to affect our house so significantly when their damage took out power to our entire city/neighborhood. I talked with multiple employees over the days as they repaired transformers near our house and fixed wires that had been damaged. I understand to expect the occasional shutoff and even the random minor surge, but this event blew out 1/4th of our lightbulbs in the house and took out 1/3rd of our sensitive electronic equipment. You could see smoke damage where it tried to start a fire inside the PCs, and it melted the laptop power supply. That is a lot more than a minor surge in voltage, and it should not have been allowed to keep fluctuating for nearly 1 minute. I don't believe it is reasonable to have dedicated power supplies for every outlet and lightbulb in the house.

I know that this is a small amount of money for most people, but for me it was quite significant. It devastated my startup company plans and there was no way to recover everything I lost, and I wasn't greedy in asking for this little portion. But with the help of PG&E employees, I at least thought it reasonable that they should cover the physical damage that they incurred. It was even worse that our house experienced another surge 1 year later so they still hadn't quite fixed their equipment to prevent it, but at least that time we had less equipment to damage.

Thank you for your time, and I hope that you allow PG&E to at least make right on this small portion of the damage.
